Planting For the Future: Sowing Jewish Summer Camp and Reaping Vibrant Judaism

It's always a little strange that Tu B'Shevat, Judaism's celebration of trees, takes place in the dead of winter, as we marked it at the end of January. It doesn't feel like the time for planting or harvesting. Its timing, however, brings us hopeful, heartening visions of what is to come as Winter subsides – the return of bright greens, flowers, warmth, outdoor play and enjoyment of nature.

The timing may seem just as strange to talk summer plans in such proximity to snowstorms. But the Tu B'Shevat reminded us of two important things: 1) this is the time to envision what comes when winter is gone and 2) we have to sow the right seeds to yield the fruit we want. For millennia, Jews have yearned for – and figured out how to plant for - the Jewish future of the next generation. The last several months, with rising antisemitism, the experiences of our college students and young adults, and questions about Zionism, Jewish history, Israel, and our values have reminded us to plant and tend what we hope will flourish.

What do I hope will flourish? Jewish knowledge, pride, community, spirit and connection probably top my list. That's why I take this moment, in the dead of winter, to talk summer. If you haven't thought about sending your kids or grandkids to Jewish summer camp, or haven't acted on it, now is the time! Talk to any kid who goes to one of the great Jewish sleepaway camps and hear them gush about their friends and memories. Sit by them at services and hear them chant along comfortably. Talk with them about traveling to be at their camp friends' b'nai mitzvah around the region and the country or about the high school Israel trip they can't wait for with their camp friends. Have these conversations and you'll know a bit of the exuberant Jewish spirit that is cultivated at our summer camps.

Whether it is one of our great Reform movement camps or so many others that serve as our Temple's summer campuses, it's time to reserve your spot if you haven't already. I am thrilled to help you learn more and connect you with families that can tell you more about their experiences. We will also connect you with funds to help make it possible. From our Temple, from the Jewish Federation, and from foundations all over North America who are investing in the magic that Jewish camp delivers. Let's grow a new generation of Jewish summer campers here at the Temple, and watch the flowering of friendship, fun, knowledge and proud Jewish life!

Financial Resources to Get Our Kids to Camp

The Temple, The Nashville Jewish Federation, Jewish summer camps and national foundations are committed to making Jewish summer camp possible for all our kids! Non-need based grants are available to first-time (and sometimes second-time) campers, and further scholarship dollars are available. Please contact Rabbi Danziger or Susan Good, clergy assistant, for more information.

A Message from The Temple's President

Four Months Later... Community Within

In recent days, we celebrated Tu B'Shevat, the holiday that enhances our world, usually through the planting of trees. More importantly it reminds us to take care of where we live. We must always remember to do this even when we are faced with knowing that it is four months since the events of October 7th, that Israel is still at war and that anti-semitism is on the rise everywhere.

One way to take care of where we live is to first take care of ourselves and our community. In these unsettling times, it is more important than ever for us to also find comfort in having each other at home and in our wonderful Temple. In February, a month that typically is filled with celebrations and thoughts around love, it is reassuring to have our congregation and to have each other. In fact, since October 7th, attendance has greatly increased at Lunch with the Rabbi each Thursday.

In addition to the many spiritual and learning offerings at Temple, there are many social activities planned for various age groups. I hope that in addition to those, you will plan to come to Temple on February 25th to enjoy the unbelievably talented WannaBeatles. What a special treat for our congregation! This promises to be a wonderful evening of much needed togetherness and a reminder that no one is alone.

Please know that our dedicated team of amazing clergy and staff is always here for you and that your fellow congregants are here for you. Let's find strength in celebrating love in February, carrying forward the spirit of Tu B'Shevat and supporting each other, especially in the current atmosphere of war and anti-semitism. May you continue to add beauty to our world and enjoy the special community within our congregation that you have proudly created.

Prior to our relocation to Brentwood, in April, 2022, we have lived in Philadelphia, Wynnewood, Carlisle, Pennsylvania, and Boca Raton, Florida. We always shul shop and have joined a synagogue wherever we lived. We have received our warmest welcome at The Temple. We now tell everyone that we saved the best for last!

We go to Jammin' with Judy every Friday night. We have met new members and visitors at this social hour. We attend services weekly, and are always inspired by our 3 talented Rabbis, Cantor, Cantorial Assistant and musician. I have enjoyed assisting in the gift shop, attending the Women's Retreat, Women's Seder, Women's Torah Study, Chai Society, Lunch with the Rabbi and Caring Committee.

As we face difficult health issues, I have found The Temple has kept me focused on what is really important - family, friends and service to others. Yes, we consider The Temple our family!! Hope to see you on April 14th at the annual fundraiser.

JDAIM FEBRUARY
Jewish Disability Awareness, Acceptance & Inclusion Month

On Friday, February 23, at Shabbat Services, we will be hearing from Rabbi Shulman and Geri Siegel. They will discuss inclusion at Temple's Religious School!

We hope you will join us for this important conversation.

Building Relationship and Cultivating Joy

Building relationships and cultivating joyfulness is something that comes naturally to young children. They are endlessly curious and can find wonder and kinship in the most unusual places. When a young child is in an environment that encourages bonding with caregivers and peers, that natural ability is nurtured and grows. Over the past two months I have been observing the children in our program and have discovered the many ways in which they are builders of community and seekers of joy.

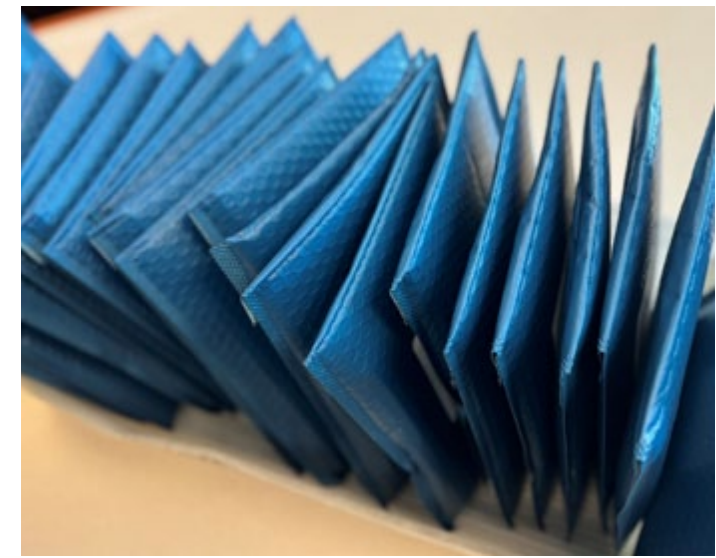

Opportunities for relationships abound in our preschool. Whether it is through daily interactions with teachers or each other, our infants are encouraged to discover, and explore freely. The toddlers form their first friendships, and the preschoolers navigate conflict and reconciliation with their peers. These are the cultivated and spontaneous moments in which the sparks of connection are formed.

Beyond finding meaningful connections with each other, the children in our program are being given opportunities daily to cultivate joy. Having space in which the children can freely explore provides each child with the chance to experience joy. Watching a child dig in dirt may not seem like a moment of joy, but seeing their face light up when they find a worm or when they make a hole that's "just right," it undeniably is.

Most of us may never remember the first friend we made in preschool or the first time we heard our favorite childhood story being read, but the imprints of those moments stay with us throughout our lives. It is the goal of our preschool to give the children in our care as many opportunities for those early experiences as we can so that our young learners continue to be builders of community and seekers of joy for the rest of their lives.

SOCIAL ACTION

ACTION

Social Action Spotlight

Each month the Social Action Committee will highlight an organization that receives funds through the Temple's Social Action Allocations. This issue's spotlight is Alive Hospice.

Alive Hospice was founded in 1975 by Dr. John Flexner and Dr. David Barton with Lynn Barton as a co-founder. Alive Hospice provides adult and pediatric hospice care, palliative care, financial support, community education, memorials, and a Grief Center that helps families heal from loss. The Temple's SAC funding helps to support Camp Forget-Me-Not, Alive's overnight grief camp for any child (aged 8-17) who has experienced the death of someone significant. The camp combines traditional camp activities with therapeutic activities from Alive's licensed grief counselors to remember loved ones and to make connections with other young people who are also grieving. In 2024, 75 kids will attend the camp. No child is turned away because of an inability to pay for the camp. Temple members Denise Alper, David Barton, and Lynn Barton currently serve as board members, and Donna Eskind serves on the Advisory Council. Please consider volunteering at Alive Hospice. Alive Hospice has a wide range of volunteer activities which can be found at alivehospice.org. Some of these opportunities include serving as Companions, helping with Tell Me Your Story, singing and/or playing instruments in the Bedside Music program, assisting with Pet Peace of Mind, creating craft projects such as making shawls, afghans, lap blankets, and memory items, and providing other types of assistance in other areas.

Due to your generosity and support of the SAC/Charlotte Park Elementary School initiative, we exceeded our goal of 520 books! Every student was given a book to take home at their holiday party. We are so appreciative of our Clergy, Judy Lefkovitz, Becky Warren, and the congregation who helped us in "repairing the world" (Tikkun Olam).

Urban Housing Solutions: We would like to thank Alan Mazer, Rabbi Shulman and all our volunteers, who helped with baking desserts, cooking, and serving!

Spread The Love

Open the pantry door in most Middle Tennessean's kitchens, and you will probably find a jar of peanut butter. It is a staple in almost every home. Peanut Butter is one of Second Harvest's most needed item because of its nutritional value, long shelf life, and widespread popularity.

Second Harvest Food Bank tries to stock the shelves of their Partner agencies with peanut butter, and they also try to include at least one jar of peanut butter in every Emergency Food Box given to clients.

Despite the need, peanut butter is not often donated. From February 4th—February 18th, please help Second Harvest 'Spread the Love' by donating jars of peanut butter and other nut butters.

We Hope To Donate 200 Jars Of Peanut Butter And Other Nut Butters To Second Harvest!

Temple Volunteer Spotlight

Leslie McGinn

From Women's Torah Study, to Social Action Committee meetings, to making Care Deliveries, to attending Shabbat Services, we know that Leslie will be there with a smile on her face. We are so fortunate to have her as a member and a leader of our congregation.

1. How long have you been a member of The Temple?

I was a Friend of the Temple for several years while I was studying to convert and then became an "member" in 2021.

2. What volunteer work do you do for The Temple?

Along with Deborah Woolf, I serve as one of the co-chairs of the Social Action Committee, and I love participating in many of our projects. Becky Warren and I continue to work with the Afghan family children and to teach English to the Afghan women. I also have enjoyed getting to know Temple members through my participation with the Care and Concern Committee. Serving on the Board of Trustees is teaching many things about the Temple, and I am getting to meet more people.

3. Why do you enjoy volunteering for The Temple?

One of the reasons I converted to Judaism is my need to be part of a sacred community. One important aspect of that community for me is to volunteer within and outside the Temple. I love being with people and sharing a little kindness.

4. Favorite Temple memory:

My favorite Temple memory is my conversion ceremony to Judaism. It was a small service with Rabbi Mackler, Rabbi Shulman, Cantor Fishbein, family, and friends. Since I had been participating for several years in Temple life, I had not realized how profound and meaningful that day would be for me.

5. Favorite Jewish Holiday?

For me, the month of Eul and the Days of Awe are extremely important. I am not very good at self-reflection, and this period of time makes me at least try to do it. Also, Chanukah is the holiday that my extended non-Jewish family participates the most with me. We are learning to make potato latkes, spin a dreidel, and have lots of fun together as an interfaith family.

6. Favorite Jewish Food?

This is a difficult one for me! I love bagels and lox, and you can eat them the entire year. But I have a sweet tooth, so I love sufganiyot!

7. Hobbies?

I love to garden and spend countless hours "working" in my flowers beds. I also enjoy reading and hiking/walking with George, my husband.

8. Favorite thing to do or eat in Nashville?

I love going to Cheekwood to see the gardens change throughout the year. I also enjoy dance of all kinds so I enjoy seeing the many different dance performances that Nashville now offers.
